The services and facilities of FAMILIES FIRST COUNSELING & PSYCHIATRY are operated on a non-discriminatory basis. GENERAL INFORMATION

Who We Are:

FAMILIES FIRST COUNSELING & PSYCHIATRY is a multi-disciplinary team of mental health professionals, including psychiatrists, psychiatric nurses, and therapists, who have a wide variety of specialties. As needed, we coordinate with other resources such as inpatient and partial hospitalization programs along with other health care professionals.

What You Can Expect for Your Initial Visit:

Prior to your first appointment you will be asked to fill out a number of forms. Some of these forms are for our business records. It is also important to have your insurance card available.

Treatment begins with an evaluation. You will meet with a clinician who will ask you about the problems for which you are seeking help. The clinician will determine the services you need and whether our outpatient clinic will be able to provide those services. If we are able to serve you, the clinician will use the information you have provided to develop with you a recommended plan of treatment tailored to meet your individual needs. Every effort will be made to provide you with efficient treatment. The clinician doing your evaluation may continue as your therapist for ongoing treatment, may recommend another clinician with a different specialty to be your therapist, or may recommend some other type of approach for your difficulties. If we are not able to assist you, we will attempt to refer you to another source of care.

Appointments:

We will make every effort to arrange appointment times that are at your convenience. In the event that you must miss a scheduled appointment, please call the office at least 24 hours in advance.

What Kind of Treatment Might be Recommended?

- ✚ Individual Therapy: This type of treatment, in which you meet alone with your therapist, is what most people traditionally associate with therapy. However, other approaches, such as group therapy and/or medication, are becoming the treatment(s) of choice in many cases.
- ✚ Family or Couples Therapy: In such treatment the focus is on the relationships involved and finding new solutions to old problems.
- ✚ Medications: Often a person's problem involves chemical imbalances. For example, some types of depression are related to the way brain chemistry affects mood. In such instances, taking a specially prescribed medication may be very helpful.
- ✚ Other Means of Treatment: Treatment is not just what you do in the therapist's office. It may be suggested that you undertake outside activities such as reading, journal keeping, attending self help groups, nutrition, exercise, talking to a dietician, practicing desirable new behaviors, etc.

What Kinds of Mental Health Providers Are There?

- ✚ Psychiatrist (M.D.): This is someone who has graduated from medical school and has completed residency training in psychiatry. Only physicians can prescribe medication.
- ✚ Psychologist (Ph.D. or Psy.D.): Someone who has graduated from a doctoral program in psychology and completed an approved internship (FFCP does not have a psychologist on staff).
- ✚ Social Worker (LCSW-C): A person who has graduated from a master's level program in social work and has completed a period of post-graduate supervision.
- ✚ Psychiatric Physician Assistant (PA-C): A graduate of a master's level program who specializes in psychiatric/mental health and provides mental health services under the supervision of a psychiatrist
- ✚ Professional Counselor (LCPC): A person who has graduated from a master's level program in clinical psychology or counseling and has completed a period of post graduate supervision.
- ✚ Intern Counselors: Intern counselors are clinicians who are in a graduate level program for either clinical psychology or social work. While providing treatment services Interns receive supervision from a licensed clinical supervisor.

How Do You Get The Most From Your Treatment?

- ✚ Attend Scheduled Appointments: It is necessary to be present to receive the treatment if you want it to be effective.
- ✚ Speak Honestly: You are not there to please the therapist; you are there to identify your problems and to work on them. Therefore, in order to receive the greatest benefit from treatment you need to be very open and honest in talking about your feelings, thoughts and your behavior, even if you view it as “bad” or “shameful.”
- ✚ Risk Trying Things the Clinician Suggests: Often treatment involves some proposed changes. For example, suggestions could include speaking up and being more assertive, listening more, being less aggressive, getting a physical exam or a blood test, completing homework assignments, etc. Also, therapy usually involves suggested alternatives in how you think about yourself and the world. Change is difficult, but by your seeking help you are indicating that some changes might be useful to you. Talk with your therapist if you are having difficulty pushing yourself to replace old behaviors with new ones.

Length of Treatment:

No one can accurately predict exactly how long it will take to meet your treatment goals. Some problems can be addressed in one or two sessions while others may take longer. Your insurance benefits may help determine the length of treatment since many health plans offer treatment for crisis-oriented brief therapy only. It may be best to define very focused goals and plan a short course of therapy targeted to those goals.

Grievance Procedures

STEP 1

If clients or family members have grievance or complaint concerning their treatment, bill or any other issue, they are first directed to discuss it with their therapist. They have the right to be seen within five working days. If the issue cannot be resolved to their satisfaction at this level, or they are unwilling to speak to the therapist for whatever reason, the next step may be taken.

STEP 2

If discussion with the therapist does not resolve the issue, the client/family is then directed to voice the grievance to the Area Director. This request must be in writing and should include the client name, date of complaint, the nature of the complaint and steps that have been taken to resolve the problem. Clients who are unable to prepare the written statement can request that the Area Director assign a staff member who is not involved in the problem to assist in writing the complaint. They have the right to be or have a written response within five working days of receipt of the request.

STEP 3

If the above steps do not resolve the problem, the client or family may contact the Medical Director, using the same written format as previously described above or call. The Medical Director will review the problem, meet with the client, if needed, and prepare a written response within 10 working days. One copy of the response will be given to the client or family.
